The following extracts are from a letter received from the sgent of the famous Minnesota Copper Mine of Lake Superior, received to-day. It will be observed that a new and very favorable feature has been developed in the mining operations of the Company, resulting in the discovery of very rich ground near the surface in the conglomerate between Nos. 4 and 5 shafts. From this new spot about 70 tuns of copper have been taken in masses and barrel work without the expense of cutting. The news is important, as showing the presence of a large amount of copper in a piace from which to yield had been expected. From the Rockland, also, the accounts are favorable. The June product, it is stated, will be 30 tuns, which is a handso no uncrease over previous months this season:

morease over previous months this season:

"We are getting a large amount of copper from the open cut in the conglomerate, between Nos. 4 and 5 shafts. From a nole 30 feet long, 10 to 15 feet wide and 20 feet deep from the surface, we must have taken out about 70 tuns in masses and barrel work in the last six or eight weeks, without any expense for cating. The conglomerate at this point looks like a vast wein er quarry of copper and conglomerate, and I see no reason why it may not extend for huncreds of feet in length and depth. It lies quite flat, one mass overlying the other, and is a most important and interesting feature in the value of the mine. Should it extend to any considerable length or depth, it will add thousands of tuns of copper to the mine. Should it extend to any considerable length or depth, it will add thousands of tuns of copper to the mine, where we had no reason, two or three years sincs, to look for or expect to find any. It is not probable we shall find it extend the whole length of the mine; but there are several points where this remarkable phenomenon occurs, isfluenced by counter veins or cross-courses from the morth. We have also opened some dignings of late in the east part of the mine, that are showing well.

"The expenses for May were $21,600. The return of copper for June will be an increase over May, and expenses about the same. The Rockland product will be about 30 tune. The cogine will be ready to run in about two weeks, but it will take same and songer to get the pump fairly at work."

streets between the present market piace and Bull's that 5c. a pound ret was a pretty fair price, but that farmers and drovers generally made more money than at present. The price to-day we have quoted at 6 29c. P Ib net for the meat, but we remark that but few cattle sell at the extremes, although butchers insist that all really good cattle are 9c., which is pretty near true; but the number of that class is very limited, the general run of the stock being unusually this, and some of them abominably poor—not only toe poor for killing, but too poor for keeping on the pasture of any respectable farmer; and such as there do not sell at more than the equivalent of 6c. the pasture of any respectable farmer; and such as there do not sell at more than the equivalent of 6c. $\varphi$ Ib for the meat,—owners say not over 5c. If all are sold, we presume they will have to be sacrificed at that low figure, for the brokers were complaining when we let the yards that they could not get bids for the tail of droves at any price. Some owners refused offers on Tuesday that they would gladly accept to day. The weather to day is all in favor of drovers, it being comfortably cool for July, after a fine rain yesterday; but the truth is, the market is overshocked, and principally with cattle held out of market during the past three weeks. It is generally understood that several Kentucky drovers were disposed to "regulate the market," and have succeeded in regulating a loss of some $10 a head for themselves and others. We are corry for their lesses, but we hope that they and others will bearn that this market cannot be regulated, when there is a regular weekly supply so much in excess as it is now, of the weekly average last year. And we think that drovers may, it they will, profit by the opinion of these who have had much experience in this market, which opinion is, that the present price and future prospected do not warrant them in paying over 21c. $\varphi$ is gross for cattle at the West, of ordinary quality; and we do not think that farmers have any reason to expect over $\varphi$ less them in correspondence with the supply, and as the butthers have got their price now below 10c., it will be extremely difficult to get it up again, unless by accident a short supply for a single week may enhance it. We think the chance of a full supply next week is good, since we have pretty good information of some 1, 200 head alverdy waiting a chance, beside what will remain over in the yards here.

W. Hunt sold his drove to a broker to sell again at $57, and it is thought he will not make commission.

A lot of Steers, understood to have cost $49, sold yesterday by Henry Myers at $53, were part of them returned by the purchaser to day to be at la again, and brought $29.

George Sage is selling a drove of lows steers, owned by Hamilton, the loss upon which will be enough to break a man's back unless pretty strong. With the exception of a few, this is a very hard lot—the most genuine specimens of scallawags we have seen for a long time. The drove may average 6 cwt., and 6c. § 15. Two, a stag and ox, sold at $56; were estimated at $6., and very dear at that, being only just able to crawl out of the yard. We noticed a lot of 10 held at $50; for which $42 only was offered a head by a butcher, being so miserably poor that graniers absolutely refused to offer for them. Yet such miserable trash as this will be killed and eaten in this city. Brutes eat brutes.

COWS AND CALVES.—The supply of cows is larger, and sales better. We noticed tes, mostly handsome red cows, including two rather small, offered at $40 cach, without the calves, which were all good. These were from Central New-York, and equal to a good fair average.

Veal calves, except of very good quality, are dull at 4] 25c. $\bar{\text{P}}$ in the weight; first quality 5c. and 6c. for extra.

The market is overwhelmed with poor sheep. The receipts this week have been immensely above the wants of the city, and greater than any week last year, except two in September, when we look for large numbers. It is 3,900 greater than lest week, and we look for large numbers. It is 3,900 greater than lest week, and account of sales well show great fluctuations.
